Brain Injury Definitions

Acquired Brain Injury (ABI) an injury to the brain which is not hereditary, congenital or degenerative. Causes of ABI include external forces to the head and/or neck, anoxia, aneurysms, infections to the brain and stroke.

What Is A Brain Injury?

Each year more than 7,300 Ohioans are hospitalized with a traumatic brain injury. An estimated 227,063 Ohioans live with the residual effects of brain injury.

Serious brain injuries can cause loss of consciousness, lasting only a few minutes or resulting in coma, which may last for days, weeks or months. Intellectual impairment, short-term memory loss, speech problems, personality changes, behavioral disorders and physical disability are common problems. Individuals and their families often face a long period of rehabilitation.

Most brain injuries are the result of motor vehicle accidents, but falls, gunshot wounds and assaults are also common causes. Brain injury can also be caused by infections, bleeding, or lack of oxygen to the brain.

Brain injury occurs primarily in young people who are more likely to survive after severe injury, but face a dramatically changed life. Infants, toddlers, seniors and minority populations are also at greater risk.

CURRENT PROGRAMS

- Helpline BIAOH's State Office staff responds to telephone and email requests for information, educational materials and assistance Monday-Friday, 8:30 AM - 5:00 PM. Contact: 1-866-OHIO-BIA (1-866-644-6242) toll-free in Ohio, 614-481-7100 in Columbus, or help@biaoh.org

- Community Support Networks (CSNs) Staffed BIAOH "field" offices provide service linkage, education and "community capacity building" assistance within multi-county areas. Of 15 proposed CSN areas identified in Ohio's blueprint for a comprehensive resource coordination system, four are currently in operation. (See map for CSN boundaries; colored areas are staffed.) CSN

Coordinators work in close collaboration with each other, BIAOH's State Office, and representatives from an array of service-providing agencies to maximize continuity and coordination of assistance.

- Frequently Requested Educational Documents - or "FRED" files include articles, fact sheets, reports, videos and manuals on wide-ranging prevention and brain injury-related topics available through BIAOH's State Office.

- Programs & Services Database BIAOH regularly updates and maintains a database of over 2000 providers in over 70 service categories. State Office and CSN staff search the database to link individuals with needed services and supports.

- Annual Conference & Membership Meeting - a two-day fall event for those who've experienced brain injury, family members, service providers, public policy makers and professionals. Outstanding educational, information-sharing and networking opportunity!

- Outreach, Prevention & Training BIAOH's website (www.biaoh.org), update memos, newsletter, and action alerts inform members and supporters of developments within the brain injury and wider disability community, sources of assistance, upcoming events, and ways to become involved. Through trainings, curriculum development, literature distribution, and prevention initiatives, BIAOH also promotes awareness and understanding.

- Advocacy BIAOH promotes public policy and system changes to improve services to individuals with brain injury and their families to make them more accessible, available, appropriate, and acceptable. This effort is central to BIAOH's purpose since in Ohio there is no identified state agency responsible for the long-term service and support needs of one of the state's largest disability populations.

- Linkage & Technical Assistance to Support Groups BIAOH maintains a database of over 50 independent support groups around the state offering peer support. BIAOH regularly shares information with group leaders, and provides technical assistance upon request.
